Dear Visiting Educator,

Welcome to the United States Army Cadet Command's National Advanced Leadership Camp (NALC). I am delighted you have chosen to visit our camp here at Fort Lewis.

We are exceptionally proud of the young men and women representing your campuses who are attending NALC to pursue their goal of becoming commissioned officers in the United States Army. Cadets come from colleges and universities around the nation and experience a wide range of dynamic training activities designed to develop and evaluate their leadership skills and officer potential.

We are equally proud of the ROTC cadre and newly-commissioned second lieutenants who leave your campuses and travel to Fort Lewis to provide this challenging training. NALC could not occur without their contributions. Many of them will finish their duties here and return to campus just in time to prepare for the fall semester.

I am confident you will leave Fort Lewis with a better understanding of the philosophy and purpose behind NALC and the Army ROTC program. We are thankful for the opportunity to showcase not only the challenges our cadets meet, but also the hard work on the part of the ROTC cadre and newly commissioned second lieutenants that goes into running NALC. I am sure you will be appreciative of the great service provided to our country by everyone involved.

Sincerely,
